Change is coming to Columbia City.

Make sure your voice is heard.

The light rail, the closure of Columbia School building and Orca's move to Whitworth, impending development – our neighborhood faces change that challenges us to work together. There's local interest in forming an organization for neighbors in Columbia City. Your input and involvement is important.

- ~ What is important about Columbia City that we should foster and enhance?
- ~ What are your main concerns as the area grows and changes?
- ~ What new ideas can make this an even better place to live?

Columbia City celebrates the committed neighborhood involvement that has revitalized its core and has strengthened the surrounding community. BeatWalk, the Farmer's Market, the art gallery, and public plantings and art – all the results of neighbors' creativity and hard work. Rainier Avenue is a safer place, businesses have stayed and thrived, and there are many new neighbors to meet on the sidewalk. Let's build on those past successes.

If neighbors organize, we can share ideas about our best hopes for Columbia City and how to make them happen. We can work together to address existing community problems and to have better influence over the changes headed our way. If we organize we can understand each other better and be a better community.
